

Get Involved With Northern Public Affairs!

Dear ReSDA community:

We cordially invite you to join us on Thursday, October 27th during the catered lunch to discuss ways of becoming involved in NPA's knowledge mobilization work for the benefit of Northern communities.

Where: Pearson Room, Lord Elgin Hotel

When: Thursday, October 27 from 12:00 – 12:45.

There's no better time to get involved! We continue to publish three issues of NPA Magazine each year, and last winter we hired a staff person in Fort Smith to lead our online and social media work. This year we are forming volunteer editorial board that has the expertise, energy, and experience to build on our tradition of publishing informed, creative, plain language dialogue on the most important public issues facing Northern Canadians.

If you are interested in sharing your ideas or learning more about how to become involved, please join us for this informal discussion. Ways to become involved might include:

- Contributing original content to the print magazine and/or online, including Research Notes;
- Becoming a guest editor for a regular issue or a special issue;
- Joining the editorial board;
- Curate a series of pieces relating to a particular topic/theme/issue that will run across several issues of the magazine. Topics might include environment and climate change, wildlife, Indigenous and human rights, renewable energy, health and social wellbeing, economy, and politics;
- Mentor emerging writers and artists;
- Secure space in NPA through your Tri-Council grant.

Special thanks to Chris, Val, and the rest of the ReSDA steering committee for hosting this discussion!

Please your RSVP, along with any questions, to Josh Gladstone at joshua.gladstone@northernpublicaffairs.ca.

Kind regards,

Josh Gladstone and Sheena Kennedy Dalseg
Northern Public Affairs

October 2016